

“Honesty Is Not Always the Best Policy”

by Gordon & Bernice Korman

Dear Aunt Matilda,

To Thank you for this awesome shirt’s the reason I am writing.

Translation: To Wear it feels like forty thousand fire ants are biting.

It’s really a fantastic gift, a very stylish thing.

Translation: When it was last in fashion, good old George III was king.

The fabric is amazing; I don’t know how they make it.

Translation: I’m pretty sure that some poor horse is running around naked!

The color’s great. Just yesterday I showed it to the bunch.

Translation: The girls all laughed, and Andy Romanelli lost his lunch.

And what a fit! I thought that it was custom-made for me!

Translation: And fifteen sumo wrestlers ‘round a spreading chestnut tree!

So thank you once again; this was exactly what I wanted.

Translation: I love humiliation! I get off on being taunted!

Translation: Yours very sincerely,
Next year send money,

Jeremy
